Young Playwrights Blitz Weekend

On your marks, get set, write! Back by popular demand for its' second year, the 2008 Playwrights Blitz, will once again help teens in developing their own voice. Armed with nothing but a computer and a blank page, participants aged 12-18 will write short plays during a 10 hour period. These literary marathon masterpieces will then be performed for the public the very next day! A great way for young people to get a head start on a submission for Kaleidoscope's 2009 Young Playwrights Competition.
